Seminars/Events

The Global Health Seminar Series is an open lecture event organized by the Global Health Research Center at Duke Kunshan University, targeted not only to undergraduates and postgraduate students and faculty of DKU but also audiences in surrounding cities. The Seminar Series, held 3-4 times a month, aims to inform students, faculty, and community members about the forefront of modern global health research, as well as to provide an excellent platform for students and researchers to discuss hot issues and updated research progress.
