Duke Kunshan University is a Sino-American partnership between Wuhan University and Duke University. We seek to create a world-class liberal arts and research university that offers a comprehensive range of academic programs for students from China and throughout the world. We are a nonprofit joint-venture institution. In September 2013, the Chinese Ministry of Education approved our accreditation, and Duke Kunshan University welcomed our inaugural class of students in August 2014.

At Duke Kunshan University, we value continuous innovation. In that spirit, we are developing a new Institute of Applied Physical Sciences and Engineering (IAPSE). IAPSE has three critical missions:

Duke Kunshan University

昆山杜克大学

Interdisciplinary collaboration

Global leadership

Knowledge in service to society
