VENUE: ACADEMIC BUILDING 1079

Creating a Culture of Ethical Integrity: Lessons from Corporate China

Speaker: Michael Hickman, Principal, Integrity Risk and Crisis Management Consulting, Control Risk

ABSTRACT:

Michael Hickman has over 20 years' experience in China advising companies on issues of risk management, ethical integrity and legal compliance. His talk explains best practices for how corporations create a culture of integrity, and will offer lessons that can be applied to the university in creating a culture of academic integrity at DKU.

BIO:

Michael is a principal in Control Risks' Integrity Risk and Crisis Management consulting practices for the Greater China and North Asia region. He is responsible for projects involving complex problems solving, risk management, compliance and ethics, and training. A member of the bar in New York, and fluent in Chinese, Michael has been working in China and throughout Asia since the 1980s. His international law practice covered compliance matters, including anti-bribery and anti-corruption matters and regulatory investigations, complex cross-border M&A transactions.

Prior to joining Control Risks, Michael worked with several international law firms including Cleary Gottlieb, Simmons & Simmons, Fried Frank and Haiwen, a leading Chinese corporate law firm. Michael has authored numerous articles on mergers and acquisitions and securities regulations in China appearing in the International Financial Law Review, Asia Law & Practice, China Law & Practice and others. He was co-author of the China Chapter, The Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption Review (ed. Mark Mendelsohn), Law Business Research, 2013, and co-author of the China Chapter, Corporate Governance, Global Legal Group (London), 2014 and 2015.
